Subramania Bharati — Research Dossier

Person | India’s freedom struggle (1757–1947) | Evidence gathered 22 October 2026

RESEARCH ONLY — not a story. Every included fact has an opened source and short verbatim supporting words. Historical recollections are marked. “UNSURE” means the evidence does not justify a single claim. The source links are clickable. Quotations reflect the source’s spelling, which varies.

1. Basic facts

Name, birth, death

Name — Also spelled Subramaniya Bharathi / Bharathiyar in several institutional sources.
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “Subramania Bharati”

Childhood name
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “childhood name was Subbiah”

Titles and other names — Mahakavi means “great poet” as an honorific in the cited source, not an independent personal name.
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “known as Mahakavi Bharathiyar”

Born: 11 December 1882, Ettayapuram — At that time the place was described as within Tirunelveli district; administrative districts later changed.
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “11-12-1882 Ettayapuram”

Died: 1921, Chennai / Madras — The day is disputed. See Section 4: a reported death certificate says 12 September.
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “Date of Death & Place : 11-09-1921 Chennai”

Cause / circumstances of death: UNSURE — The newspaper says he subsequently died of illness; the precise medical cause is not established by these opened sources.
[6] DT Next | Exact quote: “survived an attack by the elephant”

Family, learning, and work

Parents
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “His father was Chinnaswamy Iyer and his mother was Lakshmi Ammal.”

Wife — Marriage in June 1897; it was a child marriage, not a modern adult marriage.
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “his child-bride was Chellammal”

Two daughters — Names spelled Thangammal and Sakunthala elsewhere.
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “daughters Thangamma and Sagunthala”

Relatives and education in Banaras
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “his aunt Kuppammal and her husband Krishna Sivan”

Subjects studied in Banaras
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “a fair knowledge of Sanskrit, Hindi and English”

University entrance examination — Do not call this a university degree; the source says entrance examination.
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “the Entrance Examination of the Allahabad University”

Teacher and translator-journalist — The magazine article describes his translating public speeches at Swadesamitran.
[4] Madras Musings | Exact quote: “while working as a Tamil pundit in Madurai”

Newspaper job
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “as a sub-editor in “Swadesamitran” in November

1904.”

Works
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: ““Kannan Pattu” “Nilavum Vanminum Katrum” “Panchali Sabatam” “Kuyil Pattu””

Groups, institutions and publications

Indian National Congress sessions — Attendance is supported, but this alone does not prove a specific party membership register.
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “Benaras Session (1905) and Surat Session (1907)”

Swadesamitran newspaper
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “sub-editor in “Swadesamitran” in November 1904”

India weekly — Do not confuse founding the publication with later editing it.
[10] Tamil Wiki historical entry | Exact quote: “Bharathiyar became the editor of the magazine during September 1906”

Chakravartini magazine
[3] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “As the editor of Chakravartini magazine”

Bala Bharata and other newspapers — Its weekly/monthly format is disputed in secondary summaries, not resolved here.
[8] TamilNation.org (historical compilation) | Exact quote: “Bala Bharatha, an English monthly”

South Indian nationalist circle in Puducherry — The source describes political associates, not a formal single membership roster.
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “such as Aurobindo, Lajpat Rai and V.V.S. Aiyar”

Ten important events, in date order

1882 — Birth at Ettayapuram
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “11-12-1882 Ettayapuram”

1890s — He is given the title Bharati at an Ettayapuram poetry debate (later biographical account)
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “came henceforth to be known as “Bharathi””

1897 — Marriage to Chellammal
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “In June 1897”

1904 — Joins Swadesamitran newspaper
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “in November 1904”

1905–1907 — Takes part in Congress sessions
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “Benaras Session (1905) and Surat Session (1907)”

1906 — Becomes editor of India newspaper
[10] Tamil Wiki historical entry | Exact quote: “during September 1906”

1908 — Moves to French-administered Pondicherry
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “Bharathi decided to go away to Pondicherry”

1918 — Returns to British India and is arrested
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “entered British India near Cuddalore in November 1918 and was promptly arrested”

1919 — Meets Gandhi in Madras
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “Bharathi met Mahatma Gandhi in 1919”

1921 — Dies in Madras (the 11/12 September date is disputed)
[6] DT Next | Exact quote: “death certificate issued by the then Corporation of Madras in 1921 clearly says he died on September 12.”

2. Story angles (18)

Each hook is a research prompt, not a finished story. A small, well-sourced event can stand alone without claiming to represent Bharati’s whole life.

1. The Word “Education”

What happened when a boy faced older scholars at a royal court?

• A later government biography reports a debate at Ettayapuram — [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “The subject chosen was “Education”.”

Evidence note: LATER BIOGRAPHICAL ACCOUNT; contemporary debate transcript not verified.

2. A Turban in Banaras

How did moving to another city change Bharati’s appearance?

• A government biography describes his new clothing — [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “he sported a moustache and a Sikh turban”

Evidence note: The period is supported by a later account; a dated contemporary photograph was not located.

3. From a Classroom to a Newspaper

Why would a Tamil teacher begin working with newspapers?

• He taught in Madurai — [4] Madras Musings | Exact quote: “working as a Tamil pundit in Madurai”

• He then worked at a paper — [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “sub-editor in “Swadesamitran” in November 1904”

4. A Newspaper Printed on Red Paper

Why choose red paper for a newspaper about politics?

• PIB describes India newspaper’s material — [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “the weekly printed in red paper”

Evidence note: An original red-paper copy was not authenticated here; verify the paper colour before illustrating an exact issue.

5. The Cartoon in the Newspaper

What could a drawing say when an article was risky to print?

• PIB describes the weekly’s cartoons — [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “publish political cartoons”

• An image of an India issue is available — [14] Wikimedia Commons | Exact quote: “Tamil weekly edited by Subramania Bharati in 1907”

Evidence note: The second quote is the Commons caption, not independent authentication of that issue’s date.

6. A Magazine About Women

What did Bharati want the readers of Chakravartini to discuss?

• A government speech describes his stated goal — [3] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “the goal of Chakravartini was the empowerment of women”

7. A Book Dedicated to Nivedita

Why was a book of songs dedicated to one teacher?

• A historian documents the 1908 dedication — [9] The Telegraph | Exact quote: “Bharati published a book of 16 poems”

• PIB names Nivedita as a guide — [3] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “Bharati called Nivedita as his Gurumani”

Evidence note: Some modern retellings use different years for their first meeting. See Section 4.

8. The Newspaper Office on Broadway

How did a passing visit lead to a working friendship?

• An archived article records V. O. Chidambaram Pillai entering the newspaper office in late 1906 — [7] Madras Institute of Development Studies archive / The Hindu Archives photograph | Exact quote: “He stepped in and met the poet”

Evidence note: LATER HISTORICAL ACCOUNT preserved by a research institute; no diary of this exact visit was verified.

9. Two Friends, Two Opinions

Could two independence supporters disagree about a shipping company?

• The same account records Bharati writing about V. O. C.'s enterprise — [7] Madras Institute of Development Studies archive / The Hindu Archives photograph | Exact quote: "he chronicled VOC's venture in his journals"

Evidence note: Do not invent an exact conversation or disagreement not documented in the quoted record.

10. Two Poems for an Exiled Leader

Why did Bharati write about Lala Lajpat Rai in 1907?

• Government speech identifies the event and titles — [3] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "wrote two poems on this sorrowful event"

11. Across a Colonial Border

What changed when Bharati crossed from British-controlled territory into French Pondicherry?

• The government biography documents his 1908 move — [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "Pondicherry, a French territory at that time"

• The museum supplies the duration — [2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: "10 years (1908 – 1918)"

12. A Street, a House, a Printing Life

Which room or house links to letters and newspapers he wrote?

• Government museum names the site — [2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: "Eswaran Dharmaraja Koil street"

• Museum list includes periodicals — [2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: "India, Vijaya, Karmayogi, Chakravatri"

Evidence note: Do not claim the surviving house furnishings are untouched originals.

13. The Letter to Tilak

What did Bharati write to another political leader?

• The official museum lists a letter to Tilak — [2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: "letter written to Tllak about the political situation"

Evidence note: The museum lists the letter, but its full text was not inspected here.

14. The 1909 "Vijaya" Cover

What can the cover of a newspaper tell us about its readers?

• Commons describes a surviving issue — [13] Wikimedia Commons | Exact quote: "Cover page of the 1909 magazine Vijaya"

Evidence note: The item is archival; the modern JPEG upload date is not the newspaper publication date.

15. The Prison Petition

What did Bharati ask the Madras governor from Cuddalore jail?

• A reproduced petition is dated 28 November 1918 — [8] TamilNation.org (historical compilation) | Exact quote: "28 November 1918."

• It includes an explicit request — [8] TamilNation.org (historical compilation) | Exact quote: "I therefore beg of your Excellency to order my immediate release."

Evidence note: DOCUMENT REPRODUCTION; the original government file was not inspected. Do not turn the petition's political statements into an assumed private belief.

16. The Writer and His Friend Gandhi

Where did Bharati meet Mahatma Gandhi in 1919?

• PIB locates the meeting at Rajaji's house — [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "in 1919 in Rajaji's home at Madras"

17. The Elephant and the Illness

Did a temple-elephant injury directly cause Bharati's death?

• The newspaper reports his survival — [6] DT Next | Exact quote: "survived an attack by the elephant"

• The report says death followed illness — [6] DT Next | Exact quote: "died of illness past midnight"

Evidence note: UNSURE cause of death. A medical conclusion cannot be drawn from these statements.

18. The Wife Who Saved the Books

How did Bharati's poems reach readers after he died?

• The later research article records Chellamma's publication work — [5] The Wire | Exact quote: "Chellamma, took it into her own hands to publish Bharati's works"

• It reports the daughter's help writing a biography — [5] The Wire | Exact quote: "Thangammal, who acted as her scribe"

Evidence note: FAMILY MEMORY: The biography came from Chellamma and was written down by her daughter. Retell the role of each person.

Flagship angle: 4. A Newspaper Printed on Red Paper — paired with 5. The Cartoon in the Newspaper

Research reason: a single physical object (a weekly newspaper) connects writing, printing, political cartoons, readers, and colonial restrictions. It can also introduce the people who owned and printed the paper. Source-backed material includes the red-paper description, editorial role and Commons issue record. The exact red colour of an individual surviving copy remains unverified; avoid recreating one as if it were a confirmed facsimile. [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "the weekly printed in red paper" [10] Tamil Wiki historical entry | Exact quote: "Mandayam Thirumalachariyar was the owner of the magazine."

3. People and places connected

People

Chellammal Bharati — wife and later publisher of his writings
[5] The Wire | Exact quote: "Bharati's wife, Chellamma"

Thangammal — daughter who acted as scribe for her mother's biography
[5] The Wire | Exact quote: "Thangammal, who acted as her scribe"

Sagunthala / Sakunthala — daughter shown in the museum's family displays
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: "daughters Thangamma and Sagunthala"

Chinnaswamy Iyer and Lakshmi Ammal — parents
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "His father was Chinnaswamy Iyer and his mother was Lakshmi Ammal."

Kuppammal and Krishna Sivan — aunt and uncle during his time in Banaras
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "his aunt Kuppammal and her husband Krishna Sivan"

Sister Nivedita — recipient of book dedications
[9] The Telegraph | Exact quote: "not one but three of his books"

V. O. Chidambaram Pillai — journalism and political acquaintance
[7] Madras Institute of Development Studies archive / The Hindu Archives photograph | Exact quote: "He stepped in and met the poet"

Mandayam Thirumalachariyar — owner of India magazine
[10] Tamil Wiki historical entry | Exact quote: "Mandayam Thirumalachariyar was the owner of the magazine."

Bal Gangadhar Tilak — political connection and recipient of a letter listed at museum
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: "letter written to Tllak about the political situation"

Aurobindo and V. V. S. Aiyar — associates during the Pondicherry years
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "such as Aurobindo, Lajpat Rai and V.V.S. Aiyar"

Lala Lajpat Rai — subject of poems following his exile
[3] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "When Lala Lajpat Rai was exiled"

Mahatma Gandhi — met Bharati in 1919
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "Bharathi met Mahatma Gandhi in 1919"

Places, groups and publications

Ettayapuram — birthplace and court-debate setting
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "a village called Ettayapuram"

Banaras / Kashi — place he lived and studied
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: "Bharathi left for Benaras"

Madurai and Sethupathi High School — school teaching connection
[4] Madras Musings | Exact quote: "Setupati High School"

Chennai / Madras — newspaper work, later meeting with Gandhi, and death
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “11-09-1921 Chennai”

Pondicherry / Puducherry — French-administered refuge and place of printing
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “10 years (1908 – 1918)”

Eswaran Dharmaraja Koil Street — site of his house museum
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “Eswaran Dharmaraja Koil street”

Cuddalore — place of arrest and jail petition
[8] TamilNation.org (historical compilation) | Exact quote: “District Jail, Cuddalore”

Indian National Congress — attended its Banaras and Surat sessions
[1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “Benaras Session (1905) and Surat Session (1907)”

India, Vijaya and Chakravartini — newspapers/magazines he worked with
[2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “India, Vijaya, Karmayogi, Chakravatri”

4. Disputes, legends and doubts

A. Death day: 11 or 12 September 1921? — SOURCES DISAGREE

Version 1: the government museum records [2] Department of Art and Culture, Government of Puducherry | Exact quote: “11-09-1921 Chennai”

Version 2: a journalist quotes the 1921 death certificate as [6] DT Next | Exact quote: “he died on September 12”

UNSURE. The second report says a time of 1 a.m.; the certificate image was not independently checked against municipal registers. Keep both dates.

B. Did the elephant kill him? — UNSURE

The elephant incident and death were not simultaneous: [6] DT Next | Exact quote: “survived an attack by the elephant”. The same article says [6] DT Next | Exact quote: “died of illness past midnight”. A precise clinical diagnosis was not established in the opened materials.

C. Was Bharati the founder of India magazine? — DISTINGUISH ROLES

PIB records the publication’s debut: [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: ““India” saw the light of the day in May, 1906”. Tamil Wiki reports [10] Tamil Wiki historical entry | Exact quote: “Bharathiyar became the editor of the magazine during September 1906”. It also identifies Mandayam Thirumalachariyar as owner. Opening a paper and becoming editor are not the same.

D. How exact is the first-issue date of India? — UNSURE

PIB gives only [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “in May, 1906”. Tamil Wiki gives [10] Tamil Wiki historical entry | Exact quote: “Launched on May 9, 1906 in Chennai”. This dossier did not authenticate the first printed issue against the competing dates in later scholarship. For a story, use May 1906 until verified.

E. When did Bharati meet Nivedita? — DOCUMENTED 1906, LATER ACCOUNTS VARY

A historian’s article places a meeting [9] The Telegraph | Exact quote: “in December 1906”. Madras Musings ties it to [4] Madras Musings | Exact quote: “Calcutta Session of the Congress in 1906”. Do not place a dialogue in her mouth without a direct record.

F. Childhood court contest — LATER BIOGRAPHICAL ACCOUNT

The boy’s supposed spontaneous victory is told in a 2016 government biography: [1] Press Information Bureau, Government of India | Exact quote: “The subject chosen was “Education”.”. A court transcript or direct witness was not checked. Present as “later biographies say”, not reconstructed verbatim speech.

G. Wife’s recollections — FAMILY MEMORY

The later biography comes from Chellamma, with her daughter as scribe: [5] The Wire | Exact quote: “Thangammal, who acted as her scribe”. Family recollections can support a family perspective; they do not independently prove every conversation. Her 1922 Tamil foreword is reproduced in [19] 1922 foreword and should be translated and compared before direct quotation.

H. The 1918 “apology” letter — DOCUMENT REPRODUCTION, PURPOSE UNCLEAR

The reproduced prison petition includes [8] TamilNation.org (historical compilation) | Exact quote: “I therefore beg of your Excellency to order my immediate release.”. Its assertions about renouncing politics were made in a request for release. They do not independently establish what he believed or intended afterward.

I. Portraits versus museum-display photographs — DO NOT CONFUSE DATES

A Commons image of the museum display is dated [18] Wikimedia Commons | Exact quote: “29 April 2017, 15:31:36”. The exhibit label may refer to 1921, but 2017 is the date of the photograph of the display, not the original portrait.

J. Posthumous text and authorship — ATTRIBUTION CAUTION

A modern historical analysis records [5] The Wire | Exact quote: “issues such as false attribution”. Verify the earliest edition before attributing a specific poem or line to Bharati.
